Victor L. Bailey, 33, of near Lisbon, a helper in the cabinet division of the Mullins Mfg. Corp., died at 4:15 a. m. today as the result of head injuries received in a collision of his automobile and another machine on Route 164, two miles northeast of Lisbon, at 6:30 a. m. yesterday.

His death raised Columbiana county's 1941 traffic toll to 25. Bailey was found hanging head first from his car after it collided with a machine driven by Milton Hickman of R. D. 5, Lisbon. Deputy Sheriff Howard Clark and Chris Pusey said.

Auto Overturns

Hickman's machine, struck on the side by Bailey's car, overturned at the side of the road and caught fire, the officers reported. Hickman and his son, Robert, 17, escaped with bruises and lacerations, however. They were given first aid treatment at Salem City hospital.

Bailey, at the time, was traveling north on a county line road near his home enroute to work here. Hickman was driving to Columbiana where he had secured a new job.

The victim, born at Pleasant Valley, Va., Sept. 1, 1908, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bailey, now of Parkersburg. He had lived near Lisbon for the past 10 years. Surviving in addition to his parents are his wife, Wilma Dwyer Bailey, a son, Robert, and a daughter, Shirley Ann, at home.

The funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Presbyterian church in Lisbon in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. Morgan Cox. Burial will be in the Lisbon cemetery.

The body is now at the late home where friends may call anytime.

Two Hurt in Collision

An accident on Route 62, a half mile south of Canfield, at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday brought injuries to Miss Margaret Bennett, 18, of 317 Woodland ave., and Robert W. Berg, 21, of Washingtonville.

Miss Bennett was treated at the Central Clinic for a right leg and hip injury. Berg suffered a right leg and chest injury.

The Association Press obtained the following story Monday but was requested by Lieut. John T. Casey of the Third naval district public relations office not to distribute it. His request, he said, was occasioned by fear that the story might contain information of a nature that the navy department has requested be not published.

(Today naval officials in Washington said that the navy did not object to publication of statements by survivors that some members of the crew were killed by the ship's own depth charges. The navy said, however, that it had no official evidence that any deaths resulted from the depth charge explosions.)

MAYOR RACE LOSER
FILES COURT SUITPeters' Victory at Wells-ville Contested in Common Pleas

LISBON, Nov. 26.—Charles A. Lewis, service-safety director of Wellsville, and defeated Democratic candidate in the mayoralty race at the general election Nov. 4, on Tuesday filed a petition in common pleas court to contest the election won by Clarence H. Peters, Republican candidate, whose name was substituted upon the ballot in the place of his father, Charles S. Peters, who died shortly before the election.

The petition states that Clarence H. Peters was duly declared elected by the Columbiana county board of elections, but Lewis charges that Peters was not the recipient of a certificate of nomination as prescribed by law.

The successor must be named by the executive committee of the party and the nomination filed with the board of elections, which must issue a certificate to be filed with the secretary of state at least 10 days prior to the election.

The petition alleges the vacancy was not filled properly, nor was the contest chosen by the executive committee, and that the purported certificate, not executed, acknowledged or sworn to, or containing information required by law was filed Oct. 29, 1941 at 10:17 a. m. with the county board of elections.

The petition further alleges the clerk of the board of elections did upon his own action cause to be printed adhesive slips with the name Clarence H. Peters and distributed them to local precinct boards. These did not comply with the law in that they must contain the name, office and party of the candidate, it is stated in the petition.

The matter will be heard by Judge Joel H. Sharp, Monday, Dec. 15, at 9 a. m. Peters was given leave by the court to answer within 10 days after service of the petition.

Von Ribbentrop Says Nazis
Have Already Won Rus-

SPEAKS TO SIGNERS OF ANTI-RED PACT

Roosevelt to Blame If America Gets Into War
In Future

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop declared today that even if the United States entered the war against the Axis she could not prevent the triumph of Germany and her Allies.

He told signers of the anti-Comintern pact that Germany already has won her campaign against Soviet Russia and said the war now lines up as a fight with Britain and her "trans-Atlantic helpers."

The United States, Von Ribbentrop told statesmen of the Axis and its satellite nations, remains the last powerful ally of Britain. He added that Hitler long had calculated upon the hostility of a "small clique of leaders" in the United States.

Result Certain, He Claims

No matter whether or to what extent the United States delivers war materials to England, the outcome of the war cannot be changed, he declared. Neither, he said, is Russia in a place to make any change.

"If it should develop that there would be war between the United States on one side and Europe on the other, the responsibility is clearly on Roosevelt," Von Ribbentrop said.

He added, however, that any idea of a German military attack on the United States was "fantastic foolishness," and said that charges that Hitler planned world conquest, destruction of religion, and Nazi dominance of South America were products of deliberate propaganda nurtured by the American president.

Von Ribbentrop repeated the German contention that Roosevelt was a "chief instigator" of the war, and questioned whether the American people, whom he described as sharing a long-time friendship with the German people, would "much longer tolerate his catastrophic policy."

England's Position Dark

As for England, her position has become "more than dark," he said, and he pictured a bright future for Europe with England "driven from the continent for all time."

Should war last 30 years, Europe can endure it, he said, and he coupled with that statement a warning that there may still be demands for great sacrifices.

Von Ribbentrop said that Hitler sent his armies against the Soviet "in the last moment" to forestall a plot to bring Russia into the war against Germany.

He said Hitler had obtained a copy of proceedings of a secret session of the British house of commons which he said discussed a three-sided attack on the reich by Britain, Russia, and Yugoslavia.

U. S. Now Exceeds Britain
In Production Of Tanks

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The United States, a defense official asserted today, already has outstripped Great Britain in the race of tank production.

Moreover, military sources said, at least half of the tanks that roll off American assembly lines are being rushed to far-flung battle lines, because of military considerations, no figures were given to support the claim that American tank production has now passed Englands, but an official in the Office of Production Management reported today that the output here in November was running 30 per cent higher than estimates made in early summer.

The so-called "victory" program, still in the formative stage but reportedly calling for doubling the present $61,000,000,000 defense effort, lays heavy emphasis on medium and light tanks.

The fast, heavily armed 30-ton medium tanks were built at the rate of 2,000 a month under the victory schedule, an OPM source said, and 13-ton light tanks at 800 a month.

Thus the ultimate production goal of the tentative program would be 33,000 tanks a year, as compared with the present objectives, which call for 1,000 medium and 400 light tanks monthly. Recent reports indicated that delivery of light tanks already had reached the 300-a-month mark.

TWO SINKINGS HIT
NAVY RECRUITING15 Per Cent Decline Shown
After Kearny, Reuben
James Are Hit

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Secretary of Navy Knox said today that the torpedoing of the United States destroyers Kearny and Reuben James with a total loss of life of 112 men had caused a decline of 15 per cent in the rate of navy enlistments.

The decline set in with the Kearny incident Oct. 17 and was speeded up by the torpedo sinking of the Reuben James Oct. 31, but Knox said that there was now a tendency toward returning to the old level of recruiting 10,000 to 11,000 men per month.

That rate is still about 2,000 to 3,000 men a month short of the navy's actual needs, Rear Admiral C. W. Nimtz, chief of the navy's bureau of navigation, explained at Knox's press conference, and Knox declared it was possible that at some future date the navy might have to use selectees whom, so far, it has declined to add to its volunteer service.

Knox said that the decline in enlistments had been among minors and he attributed it to the fact that parents were withholding their consent for their sons to go into the navy.

HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES SEEN

Each Expected to Throw In
"About Everything They've Got"

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Both sides probably will throw in "about everything they have got" to win the great battle in the Rezegh area, which may determine the fate of Libya, informed quarters said today.

The announcement from Cairo that both British and German-Italian forces had brought up reinforcements was taken here as an indication that neither side would be skimping with men and material after the heavy losses already suffered.

Reserves Pouring In

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 26.—Strong British and German reserves were poured today into the fight at Rezegh, where the biggest battle of the Libyan campaign is shaping up on the wasteland plateau south of Tobruk.

Further to the east, the Germans countered with a tank drive across the frontier into Egypt between Sidi Omar and Halfaya pass.

The British communiqué described this as a "diversion" effort. They said bombers and artillery fire already had knocked out a third of the tanks in the German column and British tanks were closing in to deal with the others.

(A British Broadcasting company version of the fight, heard by CBS, said the remaining tanks in this force were last reported to have turned back toward Libya.)

Peak Believed Near

At Rezegh, it seemed apparent, however, that the battle had yet to reach its peak. Striving for a decision there, General Erwin Rommel was said to have hurled his tank reinforcements into the fight while British tank reinforcements fought their way into the battle to support infantry units already sent into action.

Another British and South African drive was said to have covered more than two-thirds of the desert route from the Egyptian frontier to El Agelia, on the Gulf of Sidra southeast of Benghazi.

An eighth army communiqué said this force had seized the Gialo basin, more than 200 miles from the border where it began its dash to the west.

THE NAZIS—NOW CRUSADING

Anyone who knows anything at all is supposed to know—and believe—that Germany is trying to crush Communism. That is the official Nazi party line. Down with the dirty Reds. Or, as Goebbels, who specializes in thinking up such stuff, might say, "Are you going to get plotting with Joe Stalin for world revolution? Answer yes or no." In fact, Adolf Hitler put it that way in his auto-psychopathy. "Mein Kampf."

This sort of thing suddenly has become important. It is something more than promiscuous prevarication and propaganda, because with all the cunning they have developed, the Nazis plainly are setting out to split the world into pro and anti-bolshevik sides. Either you're for Adolf or for Joe. Just like that. And who wants to be for Joe?

It would be comforting to believe Americans have gone through too many grades of school and have learned too much to fall for anything so crude, but it wouldn't be wise. Because some Americans will be so eager to over-simplify the war the same way that they will tumble over one another to line up with the pro-Adolfs against the pro-Joes. They will join the European stooge governments in what is known as the anti-Comintern pact.

Probably, there's no way to stop this, for the simple reason that people so inclined aren't usually open to persuasion. The Nazis know from experience they can count on the big lie picking up a following where the little lie would fail. The claim that they now are on a crusade, with overtones of a holy war, to boost them along, is simply so preposterous it bowls over some of its intended victims before they understand what hit them.

But there is no need for any American to pick and choose between Adolf Hitler and Joseph Stalin; he is against both of them, but right now the best way to be against the stronger is to give a boost to the weaker, which happens to be Joseph Stalin.

OHIO'S UNUSUAL DILEMMA

Latest strong voice to demand that Gov. Bricker invite in the boys for a melon-cutting in the treasury department is Cleveland's new mayor, Frank J. Lausche. Mr. Lausche probably hasn't let the idea cross his mind, but a few Democrats with imaginations may have pictured him doing good for his political future by needing Mr. Bricker a little.

However, before going any further with Ohio's unusual dilemma—an actual surplus of money in the treasury that the spenders haven't been able to get away from Gov. Bricker so far—it would be a good idea if Mr. Lausche and his fellow mayors would spare a minute for a little publication called The Ohio Citizen.

The Citizen doesn't profess to know how big the surplus is, but declares without hesitation that if there is a surplus it should be used to do all or some of the many things Ohio hasn't been able to get done for lack of funds in the past—such things as paying off the remainder of the school foundation debt, building acutely needed additions to its welfare plants, making salary adjustments and something that sounds strange these days but probably is still common sense—accumulating a reserve for emergencies.

The Citizen's idea is, to be sure, old-fashioned and assuredly not what is considered good politics, but apparently Gov. Bricker is willing to take a chance whether the newest white hope of the Ohio Democrats likes it or not. Many a state these days must wish it, too, had a few extra dollars to fight about.

PRACTICAL COLLECTIVE SECURITY

More significant than dispatch of United States troops to Dutch Guiana, middle one of the three Guianas on the northern coast of South America, is Brazil's participation in this particular application of the theory of collective security.

Brazil, by reason of its size and position, speaks with the loudest voice among the nations of South America. One good, loud squawk from Rio de Janeiro about United States troops in Dutch Guiana, lying on Brazil's northern border, and hemispheric security would be as dead as the League of Nations. All the old war cries would have been raised—"Yankee imperialism" would have been revived as Latin America's favorite bogey—and there would be the dickens to pay. But with Brazil cooperating and the United States giving assurances in advance of intention to move out as soon as Dutch Guiana is in no further danger of seizure, everything is officially harmonious.

Even the Dutch government in exile was consulted first, all of which seems to prove that the only practical way to apply the theory of collective security is to spot the point of danger, deal with it first and make the announcements later. If collective security had been run that way in Europe, there would be no war today.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, November 27

THE ASTRAL influences are particularly propitious for a lively, thrilling, happy and prosperous day, with much stirring in all the departments of life. Travel, entertainment, surprises, change and all that heightens the instinct for growth, enjoyment, expansion, adventure and progress are under excellent promise for unprecedented fulfillments. This may apply to all business, property, labor and stable interests as well as to those things involving romantic enjoyments and happiness. But in all be alert to fraud and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a year of much high accomplishment, success and happiness. This coming in some cases with suddenness, surprise from unforeseen sources, but as well from hard work, sound ambitions, and recognition of merit and fidelity. Property and other values show increase, there may be profitable travel and change, but in all keep a wary eye to betrayals, schemes and other undercover or subtle undoing.

A child born on this day should be ambitious, have much stability and sound principle, with much ingenuity and originality. It should find rich rewards for such endowments and favor with its elders and superiors.

HERR HITLER PROTESTS
By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Herr Hitler's camp would appear from Nazi and Fascist newspaper comment to be as much exercised over the American occupation of Dutch Guiana as any other recent development—and taking the long view of the war situation perhaps the wise men of the Axis are right.

No clearer indication of the powerful moral effect of this move could be had than has been evidenced in the angry outburst of the German and Italian press. That moral effect, which reaches round the world and touches not only the Axis and its supporters but their enemies, would seem to be more important at this juncture than the military consideration.

We have a striking demonstration of the determination of the United States to protect not only its own interests but those of other nations in this hemisphere. We also have a display of Pan-American cooperation in Brazil's quick approval and that's of vast importance to the outcome of the war.

The general effect must be to impress all nations with the idea that Uncle Sam means business. One would expect it to encourage Pan-American solidarity, to raise the morale of the Allies and their friends, and to provide food for reflection among those nations like Turkey which are trying to tread a straight path of neutrality.

This sending of Yankee troops into Surinam might even have a salutary effect on the American-Japanese crisis. By an association of ideas, Tokyo will be unable to escape the thought that Dutch Guiana is a sister colony of the Dutch East Indies, which figure so prominently in the Far Eastern imbroglio.

Last but far from least—and this likely is what worries Hitler most—the American move is calculated to have a restraining influence on the Vichy government which just now is under heavy pressure to make more concessions to Germany. Among the things which the Fuehrer desires most is use of French colonies for military and submarine bases, and the occupation of Dutch Guiana next door to French Guiana is bound to make the French government pause for consideration.

the greatest factor in restoring these patients to health. There was a time when they were encouraged to take active exercise which simply broke down their resistance and helped spread the disease further through the lungs.

Open Air Treatment

We were also using fresh, open air, a practice that was introduced about one hundred years ago by George Bodington, who broke with the old tradition of shutting these patients in air-tight rooms and put them out in the open air, no matter what the weather. The public was shocked when he did this, and thought the exposure would kill the poor consumptives, but they improved greatly. Fresh air, and if they can afford it, sanatorium treatment and a good climate are still important elements in treatment.

Plenty of excellent food was a great factor in the treatment thirty years ago. These people still need extra nourishment, but we have found that it can be overcome. It is easy, when they are at rest in bed, with fresh air to give them an appetite, to put weight on these patients. But it gives a sense of false security and after the disease is quiescent when they get back to activity, they regain their emaciated appearance quickly.

Semi-Surgical Methods

The great advance in treatment has been in the use of semi-surgical methods, most important of which is collapse of the affected lung and the introduction of air into the pleural cavity thus im-

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

The phone was ringing on the night stand. Gale wondered what time it could be. Who could be calling, and still thinking of the dream, she said, "Hello?"

"Gale? This is Tommy. What are you doing?"

"I was dreaming of you when the phone rang."

"You in bed?"

"No, just resting my eyes. What time is it, anyway?"

"Oh, I don't know, sometime after midnight. Come on, get dressed and I'll come get you. We'll take a little drive and get something to eat at a little country place I know."

"Where a lovely moon and I need to get that Smiley business out of my mind."

"Does this little country place sit up on a hill all by itself, and does it have a garden with flagstone walks and a little stone bench by the lake?"

"Yes, why yes, it does. Have you ever been there?"

"Gale laughed. 'I just came from there, but I don't mind going back while I'm fully awake.'"

"I don't get you, but I'll be around in a minute to pick you up."

"Gale was still sleeping, so Gale got out of bed as quietly as possible. Her weariness was gone. She even managed to herself softly as she slipped out of her pajamas, and into comfortable slacks, took a sport coat from a hanger and tiptoed out of the room."

While she waited for Tommy, she thought again of the Smiley murder. Tommy had said there was a bright moon. But there was no bright moon for Senator Smiley nor for his faithful little wife and her pet. Just a dim light glowing in some morgue for them. She shivered at her thoughts.

She wondered as she waited why she had ever accepted Tommy's invitation. She couldn't understand her sudden willingness to get up in the middle of the night and go for a ride with this assemblyman whom she scarcely liked.

Undoubtedly it was due to her desire to live from the torments of her mind, thoughts that blamed her for her part—however small—in the fatal Smiley affair. Gale felt she could never again read the word "smile" without thinking of the happiness that had been destroyed.

Young as she was, Gale knew that time might have settled in a far better way the troubles that had beset the Senator's household, troubles that the blast of a gun had not solved.

She speculated on the faithfulness of humans and their desire to sample the forbidden fruit.

The shock of the evening, the broken sleep, and her brooding in the darkness had been melancholy. When Tommy arrived, she told him, "I feel like the dickens."

"What you need," he said, "is fresh air." He took her arm and escorted her out of the door.

She did feel better once they were seated in his long roadster, roaring over the highway. The top was down and the moon shone bright and clear upon them; cool air felt and upon her fevered head.

It would be grand, she thought, to get chit through the night like this. The stars up there twinkled as they had for untold centuries; they didn't even need someone to make them shine.

Tommy took her hand. "Why so silent, partner?"

"I was just watching the stars and wondering."

"Wondering what?"

"Why we worry about inconsequential things?"

"Like?"

"Like needing one vote or more in the Senate. I learned at my party tonight—or was it tonight? So many things have happened. Most of the Senate will go along. Senator Malarkey will hold out."

"Then it's as good as through." Tommy was excited. "We'll make a deal for him to supply truck tires for the company. Congratulations, darling!"

"It's as easy as that?"

"Sure. We've dealt with him in the past."

In the distance, Gale saw little farmhouses nestling against the earth, their lighted windows like eyes looking out upon all passers. She was at peace with the world when, suddenly, Tommy swerved the car into a side road. They began a swift ascent up a graded narrow dirt road.

"Where to?" She asked it nervously.

"The little hideaway, food and drink," he replied, keeping his eyes on the sharp turns.

They climbed nearer the sky with every mile. Down below, to the right now, Gale could see the road-way they had left, winding and twisting like a broad cement river. Bounding it were little patches of light and dark ground, set off like checkerboard squares.

A darkness closed in on them as the moon ducked behind a cloud, then light filtered through as they passed on up.

Rounding a curve, Gale saw silhouetted before them a two and one-half story house, lights gleaming from every window.

She drew in her breath so sharply that Tommy asked her what troubled her. She told him about the dream and they both laughed as they entered the castle of her bad dream.

After a supper with wine, Gale felt that dreams were made of flimsy stuff and was all too willing to go back to bed, dreading the long drive back home.

Tommy admitted he was sleepy, too, and suggested that they go. Starting down the slope toward the great highway, Gale felt more warmly toward her companion than before.

"You've been a life-saver," she said, "and I do appreciate all this. I'd been thinking about that Smiley matter and I was, well, I was bothered, to say the least."

Tommy said he had been thinking about it, too, and had been bothered but it was best that they both forget it. Nevertheless, both continued to think of it as they sped swiftly toward Gale's apartment.

When they reached it she turned to face Tommy and wish him a goodnight. She wanted to go to bed, and she wanted to go right now.

Tommy was all for a goodnight kiss, and he came close to her, reaching out his arms. Had she been in the mood, a kiss wouldn't have meant anything, but she wasn't and she pushed him away.

Just at that moment, Murray opened his door and started out.

"Just what do you think you're trying to do?" Senator Jeff Murray's red dressing gown was no redder than his face. Assemblyman Tommy Olmstead pushed Gale back as he almost snarled. "And what business is it of yours?"

There were no more words spoken, for Murray advanced quickly and lifted a right from his heels. Tommy stepped inside of it and cut a snort left to Jeff's right eye, then snapped a right to the chin. Jeff rocked back on his heel, then hit the floor, his heels high. He half rose, stroked his face, but suddenly fell again, and lay still.

Olmstead stood over him, breathing heavily more from excitement than exertion, and watched to see if he would get up.

But Jeff wouldn't get up that evening. He was out cold upon the floor.

A door opened farther down the hall and a head stuck out, then withdrew.

"Tommy, what have you done?" It was a natural question, for Jeff was still as death on the floor.

Olmstead glanced down at Murray.

"Come on, Gale, we've gotta get him into his apartment before he's seen."

Apparently the face in the doorway had been forgotten.

Tommy was already at Jeff's shoulders, lifting him, starting to drag him along the floor, when Gale took his feet. Gale half carried, half pushed the unconscious man into his apartment and helped Tommy toss him on the sofa.

Olmstead felt inside Murray's dressing gown and then put his ear to the still man's chest and listened.

"He's all right," Tommy said. Both he and Gale sighed at the same time.

Gale's brain began to work. "Tommy, you've got to get out of here and quickly."

"Why?" Olmstead was not his usual suave self.

"Because any minute now the police may come. You don't want a scandal, do you?"

"No," Olmstead shook his head as though that was a point to think over.

"Then, get going. Some of the neighbors may have called the police. Your being here won't help things. Come on now."

She led him to the door, shoved him out, and said: "Please, Tommy."

When they reached it she turned to face Tommy and wish him a goodnight. She wanted to go to bed, and she wanted to go right now.

Tommy was all for a goodnight kiss, and he came close to her, reaching out his arms. Had she go on home." He started down the stairs as she shut the door.

Gale was washing Murray's face with a cold towel when there was a knock on the door. She opened it cautiously and saw Elaine waiting. Elaine didn't say anything. She just walked in sized the situation up at a glance and began to help.

"Got any smelling salts?" she asked, and when Gale said she hadn't, Elaine went into the kitchen and returned with the pepper shaker. She shook some out in her hand, held it under Jeff's nose, and then jerked it away as he sneezed.

Jeff groaned and held his head. Elaine, who had returned to the kitchen with the pepper, sneezed, too. Gale couldn't help but grin over the ludicrous performance—a blayed senator with senate stenographers waiting on him, and a fleeing assemblyman.

Then came a knock on the door that even a layman with a clear conscience would have known was John Law.

Children's Toys And Books Are Discussed By Mothers

Two guest speakers, J. R. O'Day of Youngstown and Miss Mary Leasure, a librarian here, were heard by Progressive Mothers' circle at the home of Mrs. Richard Wilson on Maple st., last night.

The Youngstown guest discussed "Toys for Our Children" and displayed some of the dolls and toys which are being shown this Christmas. O'Day explained that several years of research are behind every United States-made toy and that there is a reason for every toy, every one of which should teach something. American children will play with American-made toys this year since imports of playthings are practically negligible.

The child cannot have too many playthings, the speaker informed the mothers, but he can have too many at one time. Giving a child too many toys at one time tends to confuse him. The most important issue in buying children's toys are age suitability and adaptability of the children. Most parents buy playthings too old for the youngsters, he said. Toys should be educational, must be well balanced.

Retired Nurse Praises TonJon No.2 for Lasting Benefits It Brought

Famous Medicine Overcame Stubborn Rheumatism and Constipation—She States. "Would Feel Selfish to Withhold Facts."

One of the extraordinary features of the sensational new medicines TON JON No. 1, 2, 3, is the great number of prominent men and women who have been so remarkably restored by these famous roots, herbs and barks medicines that they have gratefully and unreservedly endorsed it in the public press so others may know of their astonishing benefits. For instance, Mrs. Wm. Rech, 408 Sixth street, life long Marietta resident, Trinity Methodist church and D. of A. member Mrs. Rech for many years a well-known nurse, and now retired, states:

"TON JON No. 2 freed me of terrible suffering and I feel it is my duty to suffering humanity to let them know what this remarkable medicine did for me."

"My troubles began with rheumatic pains all over my body. My arms, back and legs were stiff and sore and the aching seemed to settle in my arms and knees and I was in misery all the time. Constipation seemed to keep my system full of poisons and regardless of how little I ate my stomach would be upset by the sourness and gas that formed, leaving my heart fluttering and causing an alarming shortness of breath. Sinus headaches and female trouble added to my worries. My kidneys disturbed my rest often at night and as my nerves stayed on edge I felt miserable every day."

"TON JON No. 2 has done far more than I ever dreamed any medicine could do for anyone. In my years of nursing the sick I have never known a medicine as marvelous as TON JON."

If you suffer, come to the Broadway-Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio, and talk to the TON JON Health Representative, ask to see him in person.

Fighting Ball Club Promised By Boudreau, Tribe's Pilot

YOUNG SHORTSTOP CONFIDENT HE CAN MAKE TRIBE SCRAP

Replaces Peckinpach; Is Tendered Two-Year Contract

By RAY BLOSSER
CLEVELAND, Nov. 26. — The Cleveland Indians plucked Lou Boudreau from their own ranks to become one of the youngest managers in major league baseball history, and the flashy shortstop promptly pledged today that the Tribe would change into a fighting ball club.

The Indians, sometimes bitingly referred to as a good team on paper because they folded so easily, "will eat, sleep and drink baseball," declared their 24-year-old new playing pilot. "My objective is a hustling ball club. There will be no lying down."

Succeeds Peckinpach
Boudreau takes over the job vacated by promotion of Roger Peckinpach—who managed the New York Yankees the last two years of the 1914 season while only 23 years old—to the top front office desk as vice president.

Boudreau's rivals, Joe Cronin and Stanley (Bucky) Harris, were 26 and 27, respectively, when they first became American league managers. It was scarcely more than two seasons ago that Lou joined the Indians after brief minor league seasoning with the Cedar Rapids, Ia., and the Buffalo, N. Y., clubs. "I realize I'm young but I feel I can do the job, given the confidence of the players and the fans," he commented. "I feel we'll make our goal—first division. It will be hard if the army takes Bob Feller, but we're through making the same mistakes in September that we make in April."

Plans Chalk Talks
Boudreau plans "something like chalk talks" to train the players—rookies particularly—in throwing to the correct bases. The club house will be made more comfortable so the players will feel like spending more time in it. The Tribe's dugout at League Park also will be moved closer to the playing field—partly with the idea of affording some privacy from the customers of the nearby field boxes.

President Alva Bradley made the appointment after worrying for weeks over Boudreau's youth. "I definitely had in mind somebody else," Bradley disclosed, "but the more I thought of it the more I thought here's a fellow who knows our situation and all the players. So I called him on the telephone Monday evening, and we talked it over yesterday, and agreed on a two-year contract."

Boudreau is married and has a daughter nearly three years old. An inveterate time-winner away from pinball machines, he had only this regret on his selection: "I'm afraid my pinball career is over. I've come to think about now than winning free games."

BOWLING RESULTS

The Eagles held their four-game lead over the City Loan in the National league as they took three games from the Salem Chimes while the Loan was taking three from the Sanitary on the Masonic alleys last night.

The Potters' defeat dropped them from fourth to sixth place, the Electric Furnace clinging to third position by winning two from Grates. In a tie for fourth are Grates and The News, the latter winning two from the Masons.

The Eagles hung up a 2,796 total, aided by Ted White's 596 and Pete Bonnell's 588, the latter crashing through with one game of 224. Although the Chimes kepters lost three games, two of their bowlers came through with the night's high game. Bill Hull led the way with 214, 225, 202, 641 and Gene Pugh contributed a 226 for a total of 612. Jim Primm of The News had a 582, including a 213 game; Blair Curry of the Sanitary had a 226 and Bill Pauline of the City Loan a 224.

Mullins League
The Inspectors retained their grip on first place in the Mullins league by defeating one of their closest rivals, the Finishers, two games out of three at the Grate Alleys last night. The losses dropped the Finishers into third place behind the Presses, who copped two from the Wringers to slip into second place.

The Coats scored a shutout win over the Stores to go into a tie for fourth place as the Cabinets took two from the Standards to drop into fifth. The Tubs and Enamellers broke a three-way tie with the Standards for sixth by scoring shutouts over the Office and Tool and Dies, respectively.

Other winners last night were Tryouts, a three-game winner over Employment; and Production, two-game winner over the Cutting Room.

FRESHMEN TO HAVE SEPARATE SQUAD; LEHWALD TO COACH

Tryouts Will Be Held Soon To Select Salem High "Little Quakers"

Salem High school will have three separate basketball squads this year, instead of two, as in past years. Coach Herbert Brown has decided to have a Freshman team with a schedule of its own, rather than have the Fresh play with the Reserves, as they have for years.

This idea is expected to accomplish two objectives: The first is to build a team from the Freshman class alone, which will get experience playing teams of its own caliber; and the second is to give a greater number of deserving upper classmen a chance to try out for the Reserve squad.

In this way, Brown can look over more boys to replenish those who work their way up to the Varsity and, perhaps, find some likely playing material which he might have missed altogether. He plans to arrange a schedule of 12 or 14 games for the Freshman squad.

Howard Lehwald, a teacher at Prospect grade school, has been appointed as coach of the team, although there is no team as yet. Tryouts are slated for sometime this week. After a few days of working with the boys, Brown and Lehwald will choose about 12 who will make up the first Freshman squad. Salem High has ever had. These boys will be drilled in the fundamentals of the game until they are a smooth-working unit.

It is not unlikely that several of the Junior High team which defeated the Freshmen last year will still be on the team when it has been cut down to the limit Brown sets.

No one knows yet the makeup of the Reserve squad because Brown has all members of last year's Varsity and Reserves working together at practice. When he has chosen his varsity for the campaign Brown will know who the Reserves are going to be, but not until then.

The Varsity schedule is no easy one this year and Brown is watching every member of his team carefully in order to choose the best combination to put on the floor against Ravenna a week from Friday.

Seven Schools Place Men On Ohio Conference Team

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26. — Six seniors and five juniors entered Ohio's football hall of fame today as coaches, sports writers and officials voted them berths on the 1941 Associated Press honorary all-Ohio conference team.

Seven schools of the 26-college conference were represented on the first team, Ohio Northern, Heidelberg, Bowling Green and Case getting two places each, while single spots went to athletes from Muskingum, Wittenberg and Wooster.

The Associated Press acted only as a "board of elections," counting ballots submitted by the coaches, writers and officials, and giving the coveted positions to the leading vote-getters.

Boasting a line averaging 190 pounds and more than six feet in height, and a fast, triple-threat backfield averaging 179, the first team had everything.

But most of all, it had a blocking back, who not only won a first string berth without carrying the ball once, but was rated the outstanding player in the conference.

Yoder Honorary Captain
He's Stan Yoder, 156-pound "path-changer" for the Bowling Green Falcons, who led the list in the blocking. At the top of that list he was designated by four coaches whose teams opposed the Falcons as the best player they had seen in action in the league.

Yoder was injured just before the season started, was out of the Wooster contest which wound up in a tie, and played only a few minutes in the Akron games, which the Zippers took by 8-0 for the Bee-Gees' lone defeat. His fine defensive work, and his great blocking, were credited for the stretch drive of the Falcons—and Coach Bob Whittaker said the big fellow was the main reason for the Bee-Gees' rise to fame.

The ends, W. Evans of Muskingum and Mike Yurcheshen of Case, are holdovers from last year's first string, but the remainder of the team "came up from the ranks."

R. Rossi of Wittenberg won the center post, not missing a minute of play as the Lutherans were short of their conference and state titles, and he gave Yoder his closest competition for the "star of the league" designation.

Despite its fall from the heights, Wittenberg placed five men on the first three teams, sharing honors with Ohio Northern's Polar Bears. Bowling Green placed four, Denison, Case and Heidelberg three each; Muskingum, Wooster, Kenyon and Kent State two each, and Otterbein and Mount Union, one each.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — (The Special News Service.) — We'll leave it to the hot stovers to decide whether Lou Boudreau showed more courage in accepting that job of managing Cleveland than Alva Bradley did in picking him.

One thing's sure, they'd both better be able to take it if the Indians don't come through. Admitting that Lou has all kinds of ability, we just can't see a 24-year-old kid handling the same bunch that practically rode Ossie Vitt out of town on a rail.

And don't forget, it was only a couple of weeks ago Bradley said he didn't think Boudreau could handle the manager's duties without impairing his play.

The Lawn Tennis association didn't come out and say why Frank Kovacs was given the job, but the announcement appeared at the bottom of a two-page "bulletin" covering in great detail the rules on expenses.

The tipoff on that one was when Frank and his beautiful bride didn't get a free honeymoon trip to South America with the team that's down there now.

No Kick Coming
Can any college football team beat these high school tricks?

Armstrong High of Richmond, Va., played a game against Xaggle Walker High last Saturday without punting once.

And Casper, Wyo., High played its last four games against strong opposition with a total of only two punts—both from outside its own 20-yard line.

One-Minute Sports Page
Missouri's football team has finished its regular season, but the boys still are practicing. Guess why?

Leo (I'm Never Wrong) Durocher tells the boys that Hugh Casey missed a couple of signals in that "Mickey Owen" game.

Today's Guest Star
Kenneth Jones, Peoria (Ill.) Journal-Transcript: "Football and baseball did not use to amount to much and sports fans spent the winter replaying the World series. The Dodgers have something to be thankful for in this modern age."

Cleaner The Cuff
Jack Dempsey's favorite yarn about his summer circus tour concerns the encounter between him, generally, ladylike seven-year-old daughter, Joan, and the young man who announced she was "the toughest kid in the circus." You know who came out on top. It does almost overlook the fact that there was a team called the Yankees playing in the World series.

Nick DeBros, last year's All-America tackle at Cornell, has been turned into end by the New York pro Americans. Two of their star wingmen went to work for an airplane company.

'nother Note
Couple of years ago Lou Boudreau was the sensation of the college year when Illinois brought him for professionalism. Then he was the rookie of the year. Now, win or lose, he probably will be the manager of the year. What comes after that? The has-been?

"Well, why not get it?" she says, "It's FREE!"

Look, Sleepy," my wife sings out, "these SOHIO people will guarantee our car will start every time all winter long!"

"Don't insult our car like that," I tell her, "It always has started, why should I get a guarantee?"

"Yeah," she replies, "but it sure was nip and tuck on a couple of those below-zero mornings." I don't give in easy. "But why get one?" I ask.

"Well, WHY NOT?" she comes back, "when you get one FREE, just by using SOHIO's gasoline and lubricants!"

So I say, "Okay, dear." But I was figuring on switching over to SOHIO anyway. I wouldn't miss the comfort of that guarantee for anything!"

MOST EVERYONE knows Hydra-Matic Drive* is a work saver. But few realize that it's a gas saver, too. Here are the facts: Hydra-Matic is engineered with four speeds forward. That permits slower engine speeds. In fourth speed, for example, 1,000 engine revolutions will propel your Olds Hydra-Matic 2,130 feet as against 1,700 feet for a similar car with standard transmission. Hence, you get more mileage on gas—or, conversely, save gas on any given trip. Then, too, Hydra-Matic's automatic shifting prevents lags and consequent waste of fuel.
